35	Kalyān Dās ...	Was appointed governor of Orissa in 1610 according to the Ain-i-Akbarī . Jahāngir writes that he made him a commander of 2,000 in 1616, and called him to court and invested him as Rāwal in 1626.
36	Manohar Dās ...
37	Rāmchandra ...
38	Sabal Singh ...	Was not the legitimate heir to the gaddi , but received Jaisalmer from Shāh Jahān as a reward for services rendered at Peshāwar; ruled from 1651 to 1661.
39	Amar Singh ...	Ruled from 1661 to 1702.
40	Jaswant Singh ...	Dispossessed of some of his lands by the Rāthors and by Dāud Khān.

List of chiefs of Jaisalmer (concluded).

No.	Name.	REMARKS.
41	Budh Singh ...
42	Tej Singh ...
43	Akhai Singh ...	Ruled from 1722 to 1762; established a mint at his capital in 1756; lost more land to Bahāwal Khān, son of Dāud Khān and founder of Bahāwalpur.
44	Mulrāj II ...	Ruled from 1762 to 1820; a puppet in the hands of his minister, the infamous Sālim Singh; concluded treaty with the British in December 1818.
45	Gaj Singh ...	The grandson of Mulrāj, ruled from 1820 to 1846 and assisted Government with camels in the first Afghān war.
46	Ranjīt Singh ...	Nephew of Gaj Singh, whom he succeeded by adoption; died June 1864.
47	Bairi Sāl ...	Younger brother of Ranjīt Singh, whom he succeeded by adoption; installed October 1865 and died March 1891.
48	Sālivāhan II ...	Adopted by the widows of Bairi Sāl; was born in June 1887, educated at the Mayo College, and is the present Mahārāwal.

Since this table was compiled I have received Mr. Bhandarkar's Report of a second tour in search of Sanskrit manuscripts made in Rājputāna and Central India in 1904-05 and 1905-06 (Bombay, 1907). According to inscriptions found by him in certain temples at Jaisalmer, Mulrāj I (No. 21) was succeeded by his brother, Ratan Singh, and they together "righteously protected the earth as did Lakshman and Rāma of old." Mulrāj had a son called Deorāj, the father of Kehar II (No. 24); one inscription mentions him as the chief of the State just after Gharsi (or Ghata Singh), but the popular idea is that he died of fever during the siege of Jaisalmer at the end of the thirteenth century.

1	Siāhji ...	A relation of Jai Chand of Kanauj; he migrated to Mārṡār, and conquered Kher in the Mallāni district about 1212.
2	Asthān ...	Son of Siāhji; took Idar from the Bhīls, and gave it to his brother Soning.
3	Duhar ...
4	Rai Pāl ...
5	Kanhal or Kan Pāl ...
6	Jalhan ...
7	Chhada ...
8	Thīda ...
9	Salkha ...
10	Viramdeo ...
11	Chonda ...	Took Mandor from the Paribārs about 1381, and made it his capital; he died in 1408 or 1409.
12	Kanha ...	These two are not mentioned in all the chronicles. Kanha is said to have ruled for five, and Satta for four years.
13	Satta ...
14	Ran Mal ...	Assassinated in 1444 while attempting to usurp the throne of the infant Rānā Kūmbha of Mewār. Some say he immediately succeeded his father Chonda.
15	Jodha ...	Ruled from 1444 to 1488; founded Jodhpur city in 1459, and transferred thither the seat of government.

List of chiefs of Jodhpur (continued).

No.	Name.	Date, remarks, etc.
16	Sātal ...	Ruled 1488—91; was killed in a battle with the Sūbahdār of Ajmer.
17	Sūja or Sūraj Mal ...	Ruled 1491—1516; met his death in a fight with the Pathāns at the Pipār fair.
18	Ganga ...	Ruled 1516—32; sent his quotas to fight under Rānā Sangrām Singh of Mewār against Bābar in 1527.
19	Māldeo ...	Ruled from 1532 to 1562 or, as others say, till 1568—69; fought with Sher Shāh (1543—44), and subsequently with Akbar. He was by far the most potent Hindu prince of his time.
20	Chandra Sen ...
21	Udai Singh ...	Ruled 1581—95; was the first to hold the title of Rājā (his predecessors were styled Raos), and was nicknamed by the Musalmāns the Motā (or stout) Rājā.
22	Sūr Singh ...	Ruled 1595—1620; served with great distinction under the princes Murād and Dāniyāl in Gujarāt and the Deccan.
23	Gaj Singh ...	Ruled 1620—38; served with even greater distinction than his father, Sūr Singh, and was rewarded with the viceroyalty of the Deccan, besides land and titles.
24	Jaswant Singh I ...	Ruled 1638—78; was the first to hold the title of Mahārājā. He was the bitter enemy of Aurangzeb, whom he served as viceroy in Gujarāt, Ajmer, the Deccan, and Kābul; he died at Jamrūd.

List of chiefs of Jodhpur (concluded.)

No.	Name.	Date, remarks, etc.
25	Ajit Singh ...	The posthumous son of Jaswant Singh ; ruled 1679—1724. Aurangzeb overran his country, but, on the emperor's death, he recovered all his possessions, including, for a time, Ajmer. He was murdered by his son Bakht Singh.
26	Abhai Singh ...	Ruled 1724—50 ; was viceroy of Gujarāt and Ajmer, and, in the former capacity, suppressed the rebellion of Sarhuland Khān and captured Ahmadābād.
27	Rām Singh ...	Ruled 1750—52 ; expelled by his uncle Bakht Singh.
28	Bakht Singh ...	Ruled for about a year, and was then poisoned.
29	Bijai Singh ...	Ruled 1753—93. In his time there was constant fighting with the Marāthās.
30	Bhīm Singh ...	Ruled 1793—1803.
31	Mūn Singh ...	Ruled 1803—43. Up to 1817 Amīr Khān plundered the country. A treaty was concluded with the British Government in 1818.
32	Takht Singh ...	Adopted from Ahmadnagar ; ruled 1843—73.
33	Jaswant Singh II ...	Eldest son of Takht Singh ; ruled 1873—95 ; was created a G.C.S.I. in 1875, and his personal salute was increased from 17 to 21 guns ; he raised two regiments of cavalry for the defence of the Empire (1889—93).
34	Sardār Singh ...	Succeeded his father Jaswant Singh on 11th October 1895, having been born on 11th February 1880 ; is the present Mahārājā.

At a darbār the Champāwats and Kūmpāwats sit to the right, and the Jodhas, Mertias and Udāwats to the left of the Mabārājā. Among the first three Thākurs in the above list, the earliest arrival takes precedence (on the right), and the same is the case with the next five (on the left). The last four Thākurs occupy the first seat (on the right or left, as the case may be) only when none senior to them in their group attends the assemblage.

The figures for 1891-92 and 1901-02 are not quite complete for the following reasons. Included among the vernacular schools are five in Mallāni in 1891-92 and four in 1901-02, but nothing is known regarding the number on the rolls of, or the daily average attendance at, any of these institutions in either of the above years. Similarly, the special schools were the Sanskrit school and the Powlett noble's school in 1891-92, and the Sanskrit school and the Elgin Rājput school in 1901-02, but information as to attendance, etc., is available only for the Sanskrit school. The Elgin school was amalgamated with the Darbār high school in 1903-04, leaving only one special institution (the Sanskrit school) in 1904-05, but the nobles' school was re-established in the following year. The surveying class was held at the College, and hence has not been treated as a separate school; it was abolished in 1904.

TABLE No. XLII.

List of chiefs of Sirohi.

No.	Name.	REMARKS.
1	Mān Singh I or Mahā Singh	The ancestor of the house; he lived in the middle of the thirteenth century, and was either a brother or one of the younger sons of Rao Udai Singh who ruled at Jālor.
2	Pratāp Singh alias Deorāj...	A son of Mān Singh and the founder of the Deora sept of Chauhāns.
3	Bijad or Bigārjī ...
4	Lūmbha ...	He took Chandrāvati and Abu from the Paramāras about 1303, and is said to have died in 1321.
5	Tej Singh ...	He is mentioned in an inscription at Achalgarh dated 1330.
6	Kānar Deo ...	He is mentioned in an inscription at Gao Mukh dated 1337.
7	Salkha ...
8	Rin Mal or Rur Mal ...
9	Sobha, also called Sheo Bhān	He founded the old town of Sirohi in 1405.
10	Sains Mal ...	He built the present town of Sirohi in 1425, and died about 1451.
11	Lākha ...	The Musalmān historians apparently call him Khatia Deora. He is said to have forcibly expelled Rānā Kūmbha of Mewār from Abu because the latter, having taken shelter there from the army of Kutb-ud-dīn of Gujarāt, declined to leave the hill although the hour of danger had passed; this is supposed to have happened in 1456-57.

List of chiefs of Sirohi (continued).

No.	Name.	REMARKS.
12	Jag Mal ...	He fought on the side of Rānā Rai Mal of Mewār against one of the kings of Delhi—presumably Bahlol Lodi—in 1474 or 1475, and subsequently married Rai Mal's daughter.
13	Akha or Akhai Rāj I ...	He is said to have built the fort of Lohiāna (now represented by the village of Jaswantpura in Jodhpur) in 1525.
14	Rai Singh ...	He helped to defend Chitor when besieged by Bahādur Shāh of Gujarāt in 1534, and was killed in a battle with the imperial troops at Bhinmāl about 1544.
15	Udai Singh ...	The son of Rai Singh; he succeeded as a minor, his uncle Dūda acting as regent, and died in 1562. Some authorities do not mention him at all.
16	Dūda ...
17	Mān Singh II ...	A son of Dūda; he died at Abu about 1571, perhaps from poison.
18	Sūrthān ...	A descendant of Lākha (No. 11); the Musalmān historians call him Sarnān or Sultān. He was a reckless and valiant chief who fought in many battles but, though repeatedly defeated, refused to bow his head to the Mughal; some say that he died in 1622, and others in 1610-11.

List of chiefs of Sirohi (continued).

No.	Name.	REMARKS.
19	Rāj Singh ... ..	The eldest son of Sūrthān; he ruled for seven or eight years, and was treacherously killed by his minister.

The first four occupy the front seats in darbār and receive the double tāzim , the Mahārāo rising both on their arrival and departure. The next four are styled Sarāyats and sit on the right and left of the chief; they, together with Nibaj, also receive the double tāzim . In the absence of the Thākur of Pādīv, his place in darbār is taken by Nibaj; the two never attend together. Rohuā and Bhatāna, when they come with the Thākur of Nibaj, are honoured with the double tāzim ; otherwise, like Māndwāra and Dabāni, they receive the single tāzim only.

(b) Excluding figures for vernacular schools in districts.

For reasons given at pages 374—75 of Volume III-A this table is misleading; the number of schools has certainly increased since 1902, but not to the extent indicated. Prior to 1904, classes or sections of a school were treated as part and parcel of that school, but they have since been shown as separate institutions. For example, the high school, with its special classes for instruction in bookkeeping, banika business, the duties of a patwari, etc., was formerly entered in the returns as one single school, but since 1904 each such class has been held to be a separate school. Similarly, many of the schools in the districts have long had both Hindi and banika classes, but the latter have for the last three years been shown as separate institutions. The schools mentioned in this table are all maintained by the Darbar; there have always been many private ones of the indigenous type, but they send in no returns.

List of schools in the Bikaner State, 1906.

Locality.	Class.	Number on rolls.	Daily average attendance.	REMARKS.
Bhādra	Hindi primary	53	47	All these schools are maintained by the Darbār at an annual cost of about Rs. 31,000. There are in addition numerous institutions of the indigenous type, such as pāth-shālas , kept up by private individuals or communities, but they are not under departmental control. A banika school, it should be explained, is one in which instruction is given in mental arithmetic and the general system of mercantile business and accounts as conducted in Mār-wāri characters. It will be seen that more than half of the boys were borne on the rolls of these banika schools. The girls' school at the capital is the only one of the kind in the State.

NOTE.—The figures for the year ending 31st September 1907 have since been published. The number of schools remained unchanged, but the number of pupils on the rolls increased to 2,347 (including 390 girls), while the daily average attendance rose to 1,874 (of whom 148 were girls). The greater popularity of the girls' school is noteworthy.
